Is defined as randomness, innate and unstructured forms appearing as natural stone wall cladding. Organic shapes and the integration of nature bring a strong sense of calm, but also uncluttered freedom in design.

The colour palette for monarostone varies from off-white to charcoal. The rich tones combine with cement grout to create an elegance that is inspired by the architectural exteriors of affluent Californian style homes in the 1960s. It is ideal for both wall cladding and paving applications because it is low maintenance.
